

MMUST observes ZERO tolerance to examination cheating
This Paper Consists of 2 Printed Pages. Please Turn Over.

TIME: 2 Hours

Answer Question ONE and Any Other TWO Questions.

INSTRUCTIONS TO CANDIDATES

DATE: 25TH SEPTEMBER, 2019
TIME: 8 - 10AM

COURSE TITLE: NUTRITION IN COMPLEX EMERGENCIES

COURSE CODE: DEM 103

DISASTER MANAGEMENT AND HUMANITARIAN ASSISTANCE

IN

FOR THE BACHELOR OF SCIENCE

FIRST YEAR SECOND SEMESTER EXAMINATIONS

2018/2019 ACADEMIC YEAR

UNIVERSITY SPECIAL/SUPPLEMENTARY EXAMINATIONS

MAIN CAMPUS

(MMUST)

SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

MASINDE MULIRO UNIVERSITY OF

(University of Choice)

1. Apart from monitoring nutritional disorders, disease surveillance is also important

(a) Identify 3 diseases that should be monitored indicating reasons for each. (10mks)

(b) Describe the Two types of feeding programs (10mks)

(c) Explain 3 factors that would guide you in selecting feeding programs to implement in an emergency situation(10mks)

2. (a) Discuss the importance of conducting food and nutrition assessment and what should be included in assessment report(10mks)

(b) Highlight the causes of malnutrition and mortality among displaced persons during emergencies (10mks)

3. (a) Compare and Contrast wet and dry feeding emergency situations(10mks)

(b) Explain the 10 guiding principles for feeding infants and children in emergencies (10mks)

4. (a) State and explain the effects of drought on food and nutrition during complex emergencies(10mks)

(b) Briefly state the different ways in which conflict can create famine as well as disrupt relief operations (10mks)